Bay teachers ask school year starting date reconsideration

Three Bay Senior High School teachers among about 10 attending a Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Board of Trustees meeting Monday night asked the officials to reconsider its recent decision to begin the next school year just after Labor Day.

In their statements to the board, all three primarily objected to a one month lapse which would result in a calendar year pay loss and negation of a recent state-funded salary increase.

The teachers would not be under contract for the month of August.

Sandra Smith, Carolyn (Lynn). Stechmann and Joan Thomas were the three voicing objections.

The trustees recently decided to move the school year starting date from mid-August to Sept. 4 due to usual hot weather conditions.

But state law requires teachers to instruct students at least one day in the month their contracts start.

So the effective date of Bay teacher contracts next year will be Sept, 1 instead of Aug. 1 which will result in a two-month period between end-of-themonth pay days.

Walter Turcotte, board president told the teachers that he wanted all trustees present before their decision would be reconsidered.

Trustee James Ginn was the only absent board member. The board also recieved petitions signed by 21 North Bay Elementary, 10 Waveland Elementary and 28 Bay-Senior High Schools teachers objecting to the the school year beginning date.

At a previous meeting, the board received a petition from about 20 Bay Junior High School teachers objecting to the starting date.

The district has some 100 teachers at the four schools.

Judy Barrett, representing the junior high teachers at that meeting, requested the school year begin Aug. 27 to allow the new contracts to begin that.

Smith, at the Monday meeting, defined the contract problem as an 'untenable situation.'

She said weather conditions are not significantly different from Aug. 27 to

The teacher reported she is single, has no other income, the chances of finding a temporary summer job are slim and her health insurance would lapse in August.

Also her annual income would be one-funded teacher raise would be negated because she would have to save that amount monthly to pay August bills.

Thomas reported she is a single parent with two young children who all would be placed in a situation of 'undue hardship' with the contract and resulting pay lapse.

She said her expenses make it impossible to save money to see her ex-pected August bills and the attention is placing her under stress which the fears will affect her teaching ability.

Stechmann said the teachers would be denied 'an honest paycheck' in August.

The teacher also reported she and her husband are finding it difficult to budget savings prior to the pay lapse.

She noted there is 'too much competition' for summer teaching jobs and those available positions due not offer enough pay to meet child care costs.

Turcotte told the teachers they would 'possibly' have to return to the board's next meeting to present their plea for Ginn's consideration.

"I appreciate you coming before the board and we will give due consideration," the board president concluded.

Supervisor trio defends hospital site selection

The old adage not withstanding, three Hancock County supervisors are 'looking a gift horse in the mouth, as it were, and they don't like what they see

"We're looking at an offer of free land so free after all," said District Four Supervisor Sam Perniciaro.

Perniciaro, District Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner and District Five Supervisor James Travirca are concerned about calls they are receiving from constituents on the supervisors? announced selection of a US-90 site in Bay St. Louis for a proposed new county

The 17.22 acre tract of vacant land situated in the northeast quadrantiof the US-90-Drinkwater Drive intersection in Bay St. Louis and known as the Benigno Property, is appraised by Burns, Poulos & Associates, Gulfpert real estate appraisers, at a market value of $21,000 per acre for a rounded total of $362,000.

Also under consideration as an addition to the site is an adjoining 1.85 acres also fronting on US-90 some 260 feet east of Drinkwater.

The appraisers have set a market value as of Sept. 7, 1983 on that parcel of $122,000 for a package total of $484,000. This is the site originally selected by the Hancock General Hospital Board of trustees' Site Selection Committee as the most desirable site in the county for a new hospital," Perniciaro explains.

Travirca said the 17-acre site would be adequate for a new hospital, but long range planning dictates taking a close look at acquiring the adjoining 1.8-acre parcel

Together, the two parcels front some 516 feet on the highway and extend back some 1,333 feet on Drinkwater. The 'committee's initial report indicated only nine acres were available at that time at a cost in excess of $1 Feeling that offer to be excessive, the committee continued its search, narrowing in on a site of some 21 acres in Waveland at the intersection of Nicholson Avenue and Old Spanish Appraised value of that property is $15,000 per acre for a total of $315,000.

Perniciaro estimates some $50,000 in preliminary site preparation would be necessary at that location. INSERT-A "Because of the nature of the soil on that site, we would have to dig out two feet and replace seven feet of fill to bring the elevation up to the required 13 feet," Perniciaro contends. "We continuously impose the requirement that individuals meet the 13.1 elevation for new homes, how could we turn around and build at eight feet? Perniciaro questions.

The two officials estimate site preparation and the donor's required amenities for the 'free' land could cost as much as $1.4 million.

"Bay St. Louis has promised free water, free gas, free light standards, and the necessary sewerage facilities to be completed through a recently approved $2.5 million loan from the Farmer's Home Administration.' Travirca said.

Construction of a major sewer line along US-90 in the Benigno Property area is expected to begin in 1984.

"The surveying on that project is already underway," he added.

"In addition, the City of Bay St. Louis can loan the county the money to buy the Benigno Property through a federal urban development grant program," Perniciaro pointed out.

'Waveland can't help us with the Nicholson-OST site-they aren't eligible for that UDAG program," he elaborated.

"We have a year's option on the Benigno site, but sale of revenue bonds would be easier before the 1984 presidential election-municipal bond rates are higher during the uncertainty of election time," the supervisor noted.

Travirca points out many people have noted there was no water in the Resort Inn during Hurricane Camille.

"But all the land around the motel was under water, and that's the socalled free land we are being offered." he countered.

Perniciaro feels many citizens were misled by a remark made at a recent supervisors meeting and published in newspaper stories to the effect 'money is no object' in purchase of the hospital site as far as the supervisors are concerned.

"That's a complete misconception of what we mean," Perniciaro emphanizes.

"We feel the committee went beyond its assigned task by continuing its search after selecting the Benigno Property as the best available site for a new hospital," he explains.

"At that point it was then up to our attorneys to continue the negotiations on that best site, and if necessary the property could be condemned under our rights of eminent domain, and a court and jury would be responsible for fixing a fair, market value to be paid to the owners," said the District Four official.

"We certainly are not attempting to throw the taxpayers' money away, but we are convinced it would cost as more to get a hospital site by taking free land." Traying marketed.

collected thus far in the 1983 campaign in which the organization must raise $45,000. He also says payroll deduction collections from Hancock residents working outside the county have increased dramatically this year. (Staff photo by Wayne

Parents of students living in a section of the Shoreline Park Avenue B area will be required to pay tuition and furnish transportation for their children to continue attending classes in the Bay-St. Louis Municipal Separate School District beginning in September;

The School District Board of Trustees at a Monday night meeting approved a resolution imposing the new requirement as recommended by J.D. Mc-Cullouch, superintendent of education.

Although the Bay district encompasses most of the Shoreline area, which is unincorporated, McCullouch explained that a recent study revealed one section is definitely in the Hancock County School District.

The Shoreline location is the Avenue B area roughly bounded on the south by the Waveland city limits, north by Hwy. 603 and west by Kiln-Waveland Cutoff Road, the superintendent pointed out on

County maps indicate the area is roughly the north half of Section 33, Township Eight South, Range 14 West. He explained that the city and county boundaries were drawn in 1954 when the number of public school districts statewide were reduced. But he said the Shoreline boundary.

between the two local districts was not clearly defined until about one year

Prior to that determination, students in the Avenue B area were assumed to be in the Bay district and were provided free transportation to and education in its schools, McCullouch reported. After the discovery, the County School Board was notified and offered a comparably equal land area just west of the Idlewood Subdivision in Waveland, but the Hancock officials never responded to the Bay request, the superintendent explained.

McCullouch further explained that the county board must ask the Bay trustees to annex the Avenue B area for students there to continue attending Bay district school free of charge.

The superintendent reported about 60 students attend Bay schools from the Avenue B area.

He said the board's action might help reduce overcrowded conditions in Bay

McCullouch added that he's proud to be associated with a school district that students from other areas want to attend, but he must first consider the best interests of youths within the district.

Our Lady's Academy is sponsoring an International Food Fest on Saturday from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m.

In addition to the Food Fest there will be live entertainment all day.

The event will take place on the school grounds in front of the school on Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis.

Admission is free for the Food Fest with portions of Parents and friends of Our Lady's Academy are now in the process of getting the ingredients ready for all types of foods. Some of those offered will be Spanish, French, German, Oriental, Italian, Polish, Mexican, Filipino, Swedish, seafood, Cajun, and even American.

There should be a type of food liked by everyone at this big festival.

Among the entertainers will be Pat Murphy's Country Line Band, The Sharp Kuts Band, the OLA Drama Club and others throughout the day.

We are hoping many persons will attend this big event, as proceeds will go toward the school.

Football action Friday will see the Bay High Tigers entertaining East Central for Homecoming.

The Tigers coached by Snuffy Smith have an impressive record this season, and we are hoping many of the old graduates will be out to help celebrate homecoming.

East Central seems to be the team for just about everyone's homecoming tilt this season.

The Tigers were at their best in defeating Long Beach at home last Friday.

So, on Friday night, visit Tiger Stadium, fill the stadium for homecoming.

The Hawks of Hancock North Central continue to roll with a victory over St. John's last Thursday. Irvin Favre, head coach, is well pleased with his Hawk performances this season and should be. Like Bay High, HNC has only had one setback, and that was early in the season.

Friday night the Hawks will get a real test when they vie with Vancleave's Bulldogs.

The Bulldogs usually field a very strong team, so Hancock, even though at home will have to be ready to protect their record. We are looking for a sellout Hawk Stadium tomorrow

The Rock-A-Chaws of St. Stanislaus will play host to Petal High on Friday.

Stanislaus' young team has been in some very close encounters this season, and with a few breaks could have a better record.

With a 100 percent effort, the Rocks could seal another victory for the 1983 season.

We know Vernon Powell, head coach of the Rocks, is hoping to have his team finish with a winning record this season.

The Pirates of Pass Christian will be up against a strong Pearl River Central Friday. Possibly the victory over East Central last Friday may give the Pirates the needed push to give Pearl River Central a good game in Pass Christian.

So, support your favorite team this week, remember, the kickoffs are at 7:30 p.m.

about the disturbance resulting from the pickets and the inflamatory messages on their signs, the judge commented: I understand your concern for maintaining peace in your town. "But what's the difference in these people expressing their opinion with signs and you distributing yours up and down Main Street in your newspaper?

If you express an opinion on your editorial page that upsets some segments of your community, do you think they should have the right to come into this court and have your newspaper stopped or limited in some way?'! My friend, the editor, didn't answer, but the point was well made. In his zeal to solve an immediate problem he had, inadvertently, proposed to limit something he had fought for all his professional life—freedom of expression.

IN THIS COUNTRY to deny, restrict, or limit freedom of expression is not only wrong—it is illegal. It is unjustifiable and it is unAmerican. Application of a wrong remedy to what is perceived to be a wrong practice, does not make it right. It merely compounds, and often obscures, the original Why these feeble excuses? Are these Earlier this year in Mississippi our lawmakers, in their anxiety about increasing rates for electricity and telephone service, enacted legislation that has the effect How can Judge Thomas justify yet of restricting the various public utilities'

It does not include the right to limit or inhibit any businesses' freedom of expression, whether it be individual or commercial.

IT WAS RESTRICTIONS on freedom of expression by Mississippi's post-Civil War "carpetbagger" government that led to the formation of the Mississippi Press Association 117 years ago.

The plan for the organization was developed in May, 1866, by three area residents—J. L. Power and B. W. Kinsley, both journalists, and W. H. Woodruff, a local merchant—as they were having a drink on the deck of a river steamboat docked at Vicksburg.

Portions of the dialogue were later reported in a local newspaper:

'As long as the voice of Mississippians is throttled there can be no freedom of speech in the press," one of the men said. "As long as we have carpetbagger editors to support the present state government there can be no growth for the state. The graft and injustice that prevail everywhere will keep the citizens in bondage," he added.

Another said, "If only all the editors could stand together and support one another we would have more power to accomplish what

Then Kinsley concluded, "It is not only to free ourselves from the strangle hold of carpetbag editors, for that is a temporary thing. It must also have the purpose to elevate the press of Mississippi by mutual aid and work for the general public good."

THUS IT IS on the occasion of National Newspaper Week, Oct. 9-15, that member newspapers of the MPA pause to reconsider the sacred trust they share with all citizens-to be ever vigilant for those who would in any way, or for any reason, limit or restrict freedom of expression by an individual, business, or institution.

STATE FINANCE One of the first acts of the governor and judges of the Mississippi Territory after its organization in 1798 was adoption of laws "directing the manner in which money shall be raised and levied to defray the charges which may arise within the several counties."

Then the territorial government set about raising monies, primarily from licenses on liquor establishments and fines for betting.

So, for almost 200 years now Mississippi has faced financial problems, always searching for sources of additional revenues to fund the services of government.

The search continues in 1983 and will be with us through 1964. In 1982 the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, an organization with members from local, state, and federal governments and from the private sector, measured the tax capacity and the tax effort of the 50

The study concluded that, based on ability to pay, Mississippi taxpayers were bearing the second heaviest tax burden among the southern states, second only to taxpayers in Georgia.

It will be well for lawmakers to remember this in 1964. Maybe the message is that we need to concentrate on areas for reducing governmental expenditures as well as searching for new sources of revenues.

ELECT THOMAS J. (TOMMY) MORAN SUPERVISOR, BEAT ONE

A Message to the Citizens of Beat 1, Hancock County

There have been rumors that I am no longer a candidate for Supervisor of Beat 1. I would like to take this opportunity to confirm that I am actively campaigning and will try to see as many people as possible in the time remaining before the November 8 election.

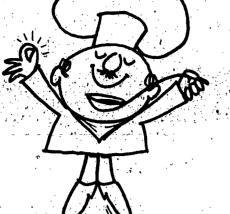

I am a lifelong resident of Hancock County and presently live in the Lakeshore community. I am the son of Aline Moran and the late Clarence Moran, lifelong residents of Hancock County.

I am qualified as a heavy equipment operator and have been employed by Beat 1 as a heavy equipment operator in the past. My concern and interests lie in Hancock County. My door will be open to all whose interests lie in making Hancock County a better place to call home.

I will make myself available at all times to help solve any problems I can. I greatly appreciate your help and consideration in the Nov. 8th election.

They'd tell you in a moment that this would ruin their fields.

They would be right, too. Yet, soil erosion is silently, but surely, removing an average of 10.6 tons of topsoil per acre annually, equivalent to about two 5-ton dump truck loads, from Mississippi farmland.

Mississippi Soil Conservation Service (SCS) officials calculate the total soil loss at 120 million tons annually that's worth about $1 billion.

Farmers are suffering additional losses from soil erosion in the form of reduced fertility and loss in water-holding capacity of the soils, said Dr. Orvis P. "We've seen the cooperative, multi-agency effort work successfully in West Tennessee. Now, TVA is working with other Federal and State agencies to expand soil. erosion control work throughout the 201-county power service region.

SOIL (Save Our Important Land) is underway in Alabama, and HOT will achieve its goal in Mississippi, too, if we all continue to work together," Engelstad said.

Governor proclaims cooperative month

Gov. William F. Winter has urged Mississippians to recognize the contributions

Throughout the nation 40,000 cooperatives are joining in the observance of National

Winter pointed out that member of the HOT Steering more than 20 years to encourage agriculture producers to work together responsibility and support for through cooperative organiza-

He said cooperatives aid the agricultural, community by providing quality farm supplies, credit, electricity, marketing services and other necessary facilities and services at the least possible cost.

Consequently, production efficiency has increased, and producers are enabled to receive full market value for their farm products without increasing consumer prices.

In_addition, Mississippi cooperatives provide tens of thousands of citizens in the state with employment.

Stars include Ron Gural, last seen in 'Markham' at Manacapelli's and at Tulane Center Stage this past summer; Andrew Gilchrist who. just finished a very successful run of Annie; Susan Shumate, ly Speaking at Tulane Center Stage (directed by Gural). 'Not' Now Darling' also features Sandra Woodie as Maude Bodley; Wally Stehl as Harry McMichaels' Peggy Underhill last seen in 'Plaza Suite' at Minacapelli's, a new comer Sharon Clement: veterans Zannie Giraud and John Dupuy as Sue and Charlie Lawson, Cynthia Hoffman; and the magnetic comedy of Ed Chaddick last seen at Minacapelli's in 'See How They Run.

Keener, the master of farce and comic timing, has cooked up a winning, and grinning good time this time.

The action takes place in the Slidell. show room of a London furrier, owned by Maude and played by Andrew Gilchrist.

in the South of France, leaving "Bodley, Bodley and Crouch" in the hands of her two part-seen in 'Boeing Boeing' at explains to Arnold that he's Minacapelli's and in Relative- giving a $10,000 mink to a young lady named Janie McMichaels in return for certain favors.

Mr. Crouch is astonished and appalled especially when he's forced to become involved in Mr. Bodley's insane plot. Just as things begin to warm up who should show up but Mrs. Bodley and Janie's jealous gangster husband.

Things get completely out of hand with Mr. McMichaels wife and secretary undressed and Gilbert Bodley undone. But all ends happily though not without a few surprises. 'Not Now Darling' will run Oct. 7 through Nov. 13 at the theater, 227 Cousin St. in Regular shows run Friday and Saturday nights with din-Gilbert Bodley (Woodie and ner at 6:30 p.m. and curtain at Gural) and Arnold Crouch 8;30 p.m. and Sunday matinees with dinner at 12:30 Maude has gone on holiday p.m. and curtain at 2:30 p.m. Special Wednesday and Thursday shows can be arranged for 80 people or more.

For reservation and group And of course while the cats sales call 888-7000 in New away Gilbert will play. Gilbert Orleans or 643-9671 in Slidell.

LOOKING FOR A HOME-A concerned citizen found this medium-size mixed collie and hound in the vicinity of Nicholson Avenue in Waveland. The lovable and playful dog named Sadie is now at the Hancock County Animal Shelter on Gulfside Drive in Waveland and available to a good home with a fenced yard through the Bay-Waveland Humane Society by telephoning 467-0475. The shelter is also filled to capacity with a variety of beautiful dogs and pupples which will soon be euthanized (painlessly put to death) unless they are soon adopted. Bay trustees to determine school construction priority

The Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Board of Trustees will meet in a special session Monday night to decide a construction program course of action.

J.D. McCullouch, Bay superintendent of education, reported Wednesday that the trustees at a recent meeting tabled action regarding four construction recommendations formulated by himself, an Education Needs Assessment Committee and the board. He said the board will decide what construction programs they will undertake Monday night.

The upcoming meeting is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. at the superintendent's Bay Senior High School office.

A prime recommendation is construction of a new 12-room first through sixth-grade elementary school, he reported. McCullouch said Fred Wagner of Bay St. Louis, district architect, estimated such a facility would roughly cost $1.3 million.

The superintendent said the new school would help alleviate overcrowded conditions at North Bay Elementary and provide classrooms for the statewide kindergarten program to begin in 1986.

Funds for the new school would require a referendum regarding issuance of general obligation bonds which are repayed with a tax levy.

He added that the board is also considering building two additional classrooms at Waveland Elementary, with existing available funds to remedy immediate student needs.

McCullouch noted the cost of constructing two classrooms is about $100,000.

The remaining three recommendations, in order of priority, include renovation of North Bay and then Bay Junior High School, and construction of a fine arts building at the senior high to house the band, chorus and provide additional classroom space, the superintendent listed.

ETV Brief

INSIDE STORY

A special "Inside Story" program with Hodding Carter tells the real-life story of a powerful Nicaraguan publishing family whose diametrically opposing views of the Sandinista regime mirror the division in that Central American country.

"A House Divided" can be seen at 8 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 13 on the Mississippi ETV Net-

In 1978 and 1979 the Chamorro family, a family of newspaper people, were tightly united behind the Sandinista overthrow of the Somoza dictatorship.

Now four years later the unity of the family and the newspapers they run has been torn by a bitter personal and editorial split that "Inside Story" anchor Hodding Carter calls both a metaphor for Nicaragua itself and evidence that some degree of freedom exists in that deleaguered land.

The roots of the division in family and country lie in the 1978 assassination of Pedro Joaquin Chamorro, who had devoted his life and the pages of his powerful newspaper, La Prensa, to Somoza's overthrow. Today his eldest son, who bears the same name. carries on his father's fight for freedom as editor of the same newspaper

The official Sandinista newspaper, Barricada, is run Carlos Fernando Chamorro, brother of the pre-sent La Preside selitor.

One of the most important parts of a newspaper is generally found near the front of the classified advertising columns.

These are legal notices, paid announcements that normally include government meetings, transactions, bid invitations, sales, taxing and other public service information such as street repair and land use proposals that, invariably, affect everyone.

Legal notices are a prime means of maintaining the channels of communication between the public and its government, whether at the most local of levels or statewide.

They are not always government notices, of course; frequently they are purchased by businesses and private parties, containing information of value to property owners, to relatives or to creditors or to even other agencies. But the intent is the same: communication with the public. These are channels which must continue to be kept open.

This is National Newspaper Week. Quite often the occasion is used to again call to mind the value of an open society guaranteed by the First Amendment rights that include press freedom. And quite often that freedom is stressed by alerting citizens to the need of governmental cooperation with the media and, by extension, with the people.

But cooperation is not limited to news-gathering, or the reporting of stories. Legal notices have their own vital role, often by requiring government to inform the public of its plans ahead of time, so that participation in its functions is not limited to a select group of officials or citizen-insiders.

Legal notices are a process of information perhaps more needed today than at any time, given the complexity of modern government.

Yet on occasion there are those who would instead prefer that such notices be more restricted or even omitted. They may even cite cost reductions. But in truth theirs is an old and undemocratic game, that people are too unconcerned or too ignorant to be invited into the forum of political and governmental decision-making.

Legal notices are a protection against corruption, against bid-rigging and a host of other temptations to pullic officials. The use of legal notices is evidence of government's commitment to be open with its citizens. Similarly, they are a safeguard of government integrity.

Legal notices, then, are another way of living up to the aims of the First Amendment. They are records and they may even be history yet to be made. Legal notices are invaluable to an open society. For government and its people, and as much as any other component of a newspaper, legal notices help keep the door ajar. DINNER AT JULIA'S

More Smokers. Less Smoke

According to figures recently released by the Gallup Organization, the number of smokers in the U.S. is up 3 percent, the first increase since the early 1950's, but according to the Department of Agriculture the number of cigarettes sold in the United States last year is down 6 billion from the previous year, A spokesperson for the American Lung Association says "Take care of your lungs. They're only human." For help in quitting smoking, call your local Lung Association.

SPECIAL MULTI-PERIL...

In an age when strict economy is the guiding principle of most business concerns. the SPECIAL MULTI-PERIL package makes a lot of sense. The SMP represents a strong foundation of protection against the major perils common to most businesses. From there it offers a vast range of optional coverages and features so that each policy may be custom designed to your . particular exposure. And because it comes as a complete package of protection, SMP is available at substantial savings over a collection of individual policies. CHILDREN AND CHIROPRACTIC CARE

There is nothing more advantageous to children than periodic Chiropractic care. Their young bodies are growing and tissues of the body are rapidly developing. Periodic Chiropractic check-ups help assure the normal nerve function so vital to normal healthy development. Amazingly enough, children sense that this care helps them, and they enjoy the gentle painless doctor that does not require them to take harsh-tasting remedies. Mothers who have children under Chiropractic care report: "They rarely have any sudden or serious health problem occur, they just seem to grow healthy!" How true this is!

Family economics specialist eyes guaranteed loans

By Beverly Riggs Family Economics and Management Specialist Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

Education after high school is time consuming, costs Education is a big investment. A variety of financial aid programs exist, but one of the best known are the Guaranteed Student Loans (GSL). A GSL is a low interest loan made by a lender such as a bank, credit union or savings and loan association to help These loans are insured by a
